LOCAL MATTERS.

How MR. A. A. JONES SHOT HIMSELF .-Coroner Taylor held an inquest on Saturday afternoon upon the body of Mr. A. A. Jones, who shot himself at his late residence, on Oregon Hill, on Friday night. There were but few new facts brought out at the examination. Mr. Julius O. Jones, his son, who was present when his father was shot, testified that his father came into the room through the back door and walked up to the mantel-piece, as he supposed, to get a pipe to take a smoke. He saw his son's pistol lying there and picked it up. After looking at it he swung it around his head several times, exclaiming, " Ree! Ree! Ree!" This seems to have been a favorite expression of his, for it was stated that he had been accustomed to swing the chairs about his head and utter the same words. While he was swinging the pistol about him it went off, and it was the opinion of the witness, accidentally. This opinion was strengthened by the increase principal, Reverbal. > THE HOBSON-HOCKADAY DIFFICULTY-AN A MICABLE SETTLEMENT .- Policeman John N. Hobson was before the Police Justice Saturday morning to answer the charge of attempting to shoot Mr. J. R. Hockaday. Mr. Hockaday stated that some three or four weeks ago, before the Council had passed the ordinance in relation to his produce sales, Mr. Hobson rudely informed him that he meant to report him for obstructing the sidewalk, and did so report him, but the case was dismissed. On Friday last Mr. Hobson came into his store and asked him if he had said that he (Hobson) was drunk on the occasion mentioned. Mr. Hockaday staated that he had. Mr. Hobson said it was a l e, which utterance - of age received; if well adwas followed by a blow from Mr. Hockaday. Mr. Hobson began to retreat and drew a pistol, which was knocked out of his hand, whereupon he drew another, but was prevented from using it. Mr. Hockaday declared that he entertained no feelings of hostility towards Mr. Hobson, and was willing o compromise the matter. Captain George D. Wise, counsel for Mr. Hobson, accordingly lowed by the statute, and accused was dis- mond for the years 1873-74 and 1874-75: charged. The charge against Messrs. Hobon and Hockaday of fighting in the street was dismissed along with the other.

Captain Wise urged the Police Justice not to send the case before the Police Board. Policeman Hobson was a man who had always borne an excellent character, and smarting under the intimation that he had been drunk, bad gone to Mr. Hockaday's not to have a row, but a better understanding. His conduct was perhaps not prudent, but Mr. Hobson declared that he had not given the

The Police Justice remarked that he was not now sitting as a member of the Police Board. Major Poe (who was present), he had no doubt, well understood his duty in the premises.

All the parties then left the court-room.
